Land Acknowledgment

We acknowledge that Vassar stands upon the homelands of the Munsee Lenape, Indigenous peoples who have an enduring connection to this place despite being forcibly displaced by European colonization. Munsee Lenape peoples continue today as the Stockbridge-Munsee Community in Wisconsin, the Delaware Tribe and the Delaware Nation in Oklahoma, and the Munsee-Delaware Nation in Ontario. This acknowledgment, however, is insufficient without our reckoning with the reality that every member of the Vassar community since 1861 has benefited from these Native peoples’ displacement, and it is hollow without our efforts to counter the effects of structures that have long enabled—and that still perpetuate— injustice against Indigenous Americans. To that end, we commit to build and sustain relationships with Native communities; to expand opportunities at Vassar for Native students, as well as Native faculty and other employees; and to collaborate with Native nations to know better the Indigenous peoples, past and present, who care for this land.

Unclouded Day
Words and Music by J.K. Alwood (1828-1909)
Arranged by Shawn Kirchner

Christine Howlett
Associate Professor and Chair of Music
and Director of Choral Activities

Unclouded Day is the first movement from Heavenly Home: Three American Songs, an a cappella setting of the gospel tune by J.K. Alwood. He was inspired by an extraordinary sight in August 1879: “I saw a beautiful rainbow north by northwest against a dense black nimbus cloud. The sky was all perfectly clear except this dark cloud which covered about forty degrees of the horizon and extended about halfway to the zenith. The phenomenon was entirely new to me and my nerves refreshed by the balmy air and the lovely sight.” The energetic arrangement offers a message of hope, combining traditional bluegrass style with counterpoint and fugue.

All

Gaudeamus igitur, iuvenes dum sumus!
Gaudeamus igitur, iuvenes dum sumus!
Post iucundam iuventutem,
Post molestam senectutem
Nos habebit humus,
Nos habebit humus.

Choir

Vivat academia, vivant professores,
Vivat academia, vivant professores,
Vivat membrum quod libet,
Vivat membra quae libet,
Semper sint in flore,
Semper sint in flore.

All

Alma mater floreat quae nos educavit,
Alma mater floreat quae nos educavit,
Caros et commilitones
Dissitas in regiones,
Sparsos congregavit,
Sparsos congregavit.

Let us rejoice, therefore,
While we are young,
After a pleasant youth
After a troublesome old age
The earth will have us.

Long live the academy,
Long live the professors,
Long live each individual member
Long live all members whosoever
And always be in flower.

May our alma mater flourish,
She who has reared us
And brought us together,
dear companions,
Scattered though we have been
Into remote regions.

Nancy Bisaha was born and raised in central New Jersey. She received her BA from Rutgers College in 1990 and her PhD from Cornell University in 1997, where she worked under the direction of John Najemy. In 2004 Bisaha published Creating East and West: Renaissance Humanists and the Ottoman Turks (UPenn Press), which examines the ways in which humanists created an intellectual discourse depicting the Ottoman Turks as a cultural and religious other. She recently published a translation of Aeneas Silvius Piccolomini’s De Europa in collaboration with Robert Brown. Bisaha is currently working on an intellectual biography of Pope Pius II and an article exploring the early roots of human rights theory.

In addition to teaching survey courses on the Middle Ages and the Renaissance, Bisaha teaches such courses as “The Dark Ages c. 400-900,” “The Crusades,” and “Constantinople/Istanbul: 1453.” Bisaha is currently Director of the Medieval and Renaissance Studies Program.
Arushi Raina ’14 is the recipient of the 2022 Young Alumnae/i Achievement Award, presented to a graduate of the last 10 years for exceptional personal and professional achievement. Arushi majored in economics and English at Vassar and earned membership in Phi Beta Kappa. She also has an MBA from Ivey Business School at Western University in Ontario, Canada.

She currently serves as Director of Commercialization at the nonprofit Praxis Spinal Cord Institute in Vancouver, where she is responsible for bringing to market innovations for improving the lives of people with spinal cord injuries. Her work at Praxis earned her a “30 Under 30” recognition from the British Columbia magazine BC Business in 2020. Arushi is also a novelist. Her first book for young adults, When Morning Comes, began as her Vassar thesis and was declared “a riveting and accomplished debut” by Publisher’s Weekly.

Arushi will be the featured guest at tonight’s program The Versatility of a Vassar Degree: A Conversation with Arushi Raina ’14 at 8:00 pm in Taylor 203. Please join us!

A cupcake reception will follow.
2022 Faculty Endowed Chairs

Mita Choudhury, Professor of History
Evalyn Clark Chair
This endowed professorship was established in 2002 with a gift from the estate of Claudia Du Pont Lyon, class of 1924, in honor of her classmate Evalyn A. Clark ’24. Evalyn Clark was a beloved teacher and acclaimed scholar of European History who served three decades as a faculty member in Vassar’s Department of History from 1939 until her retirement in 1968, remaining an active member of the Vassar community until her death at the age of 98 in 2001. The Evalyn Clark Chair recognizes and supports a distinguished faculty member in the History Department.

Kelli Duncan, Professor of Biology
Patricia Shoer Goldman-Rakic ’59 Chair in Neuroscience and Behavior
This endowed professorship was established in 2021 with a gift from the estate of Ruth Shoer Rapport ’59, in honor of her twin sister Patricia Shoer Goldman-Rakic ’59, who performed groundbreaking research in unraveling the previously unknown functioning of the brain’s prefrontal cortex. The Patricia Shoer Goldman-Rakic ’59 Chair honors a faculty member whose work is exceptional in advancing research in neuroscience and its interrelated disciplines, and is an inspirational role model and mentor to colleagues and students.

Ismail Rashid, Professor of History
Marion Musser Lloyd ’32 Chair
This endowed professorship was established in 2011 with a gift from Mary Lloyd Estrin ’66 and Robert Estrin in honor of Mary’s mother, Marion Musser Lloyd, a devoted Vassar alumna and former Trustee of the College. The Marion Musser Lloyd ’32 Chair recognizes and supports a distinguished faculty member whose teaching and research are in History or International Studies.
José Perillán, Associate Professor of Physics and STS, and Director of the STS Program
Pauline Newman ’47 Director of Science, Technology, and Society

This rotating endowed directorship, awarded to the STS Director for the duration of their term, was established in 2018 with a gift from Judge Pauline Newman ’47. The endowed directorship supports the STS Program and is one of several ways Judge Newman has generously supported the College, including an endowment to fund programmatic components of STS, an internship that funds work in STS-related areas, a prize for excellence in STS, and a fund to support faculty team-teaching.

Paulina Bren, Adjunct Professor of Multidisciplinary Studies
Pittsburgh Endowment Chair in the Humanities

This endowed professorship was established in 1961 with generous gifts from members of the Pittsburgh Vassar Club, led by Pittsburgh alumnae Dorothy Hurlock Magee, class of 1921 and Grace Braun Ridall ’47, who shared a commitment to the value of a liberal arts education that poses new questions to meet the needs of each new generation of students. The Pittsburgh Endowment Chair recognizes and supports a distinguished faculty member in the Humanities.
Academic Dress

The custom of wearing academic dress stems from the Middle Ages when scholars were also clerics and wore the costumes of their monastic orders. Significant parts of academic dress are the gown, the hood, and the cap. Each has a particular significance and is worn in accordance with standards established by the Academic Costume Code of the American Council on Education.

Gowns recommended for use in the colleges and universities of this country have the following characteristics.

The gown for the bachelor’s degree has pointed sleeves, and is designed to be worn closed. The gown for the master’s degree has an oblong sleeve, open at the wrist. The sleeve base hangs down in the traditional manner. The rear part of its oblong shape is square cut, and the front part has an arc cut away. The gown is supplied with fasteners so that it may be worn open or closed. The gown for the doctor’s degree has bell-shaped sleeves. It is supplied with fasteners so that it may be worn open or closed.

Material. Cotton poplin or similar material for the bachelor’s and master’s degrees, and rayon or silk ribbed material for the doctor’s degree.

Color. Black is recommended.

Trimmings. None for the bachelor’s or master’s degrees. For the doctor’s degree, the gown is faced down the front with black velvet and three bars of black velvet are sewn across the sleeves. These facings and crossbars may be velvet of the color distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains.

For all academic purposes, including trimmings of doctors’gowns, edging of hoods, and tassels of caps, the colors associated with the different subjects are as follows:

In 1865, President John H. Raymond gave a sermon in honor of the College’s opening. Such services continued to be held every September until 1914. Then, at the suggestion of History Professor Lucy Maynard Salmon, a convocation ceremony, with a procession of the faculty in academic regalia, was organized to formally open each academic year. “Gaudeamus Igitur” was added in the 1920s and has been sung by students and faculty alike to conclude the celebratory event. Believed to originate from a 13th-century manuscript, it creates a direct link to the period and culture in which the university was invented.

“The university was arguably the most progressive and liberating institution of the medieval period— the product of student and teachers’ guilds rather than a top-down hierarchical creation. It was and is a living and ever-changing entity, and ‘Gaudeamus’ reminds us of the university’s exuberant and imperfect roots as we continually seek to improve it. The Latin lyrics recall a language that was accessible to many school boys and girls; it was a gateway to a world of higher education that enabled countless people to communicate across borders and to enjoy popular songs that spoke to shared experiences.”
